

Dirty Old Man

Gets His

Satisfaction

www.tiger.m.net

I saw someone's rendition of 'Bizkit': The Sleep Walking Dog' with the awesome Benny Benassi song 'Satisfaction' in it and was reminded of this scene from 'Two For The Money' [Starring Al 'Scarface' Pacino' and Matthew McConaughey] which also had me think of the song (which oddly enough—I learned by playing a Simfile for the Stepchart simulator several years back Stepmania ^^);

I suppose the way 'dirty-playing-dude' says 'Satisfaction' sent me to thinking. ^^;

I've been desiring to do something like this for a little while (saw the movie about 3 years ago), but initially just didn't have the know-how-or-technical-knowledge. ^^;

Welp! World... Look out! XD Tiger has learned the ropes! [Well... some of them... ^^;]

=D jyoo!

Shudders

When I first saw this scene, it actually sent chills up and down my spine.

Could anyone imagine being in such a situation or confrontation? [There is A LOT more which was actually cut to keep the comedic relief going including stalking and a threatening-of-life-by-gun... O.O;]

However, something about the 'sudden burst' of music just brings out the comedy in an otherwise... unsettling scene XD [Or at least so I's-think. ^_^]

Enjoy! =D

Had fun piecing this one together! ^_^

We've come a long way from clipping magazine cut-outs and taping-and-gluing them to shape-and-make artwork-and-or-a-story in this awesome Information's Age now haven't we? ^^

Forever In Love With All That Which Exists
(That Which Is Seen & Unseen, Known & Unknown),
Honestly, Humbly & Sincerely,

-Tiger M. Gales [Friday]

-11:39 PM (7/8/2009)

[www.tigerm.net]